Objectives

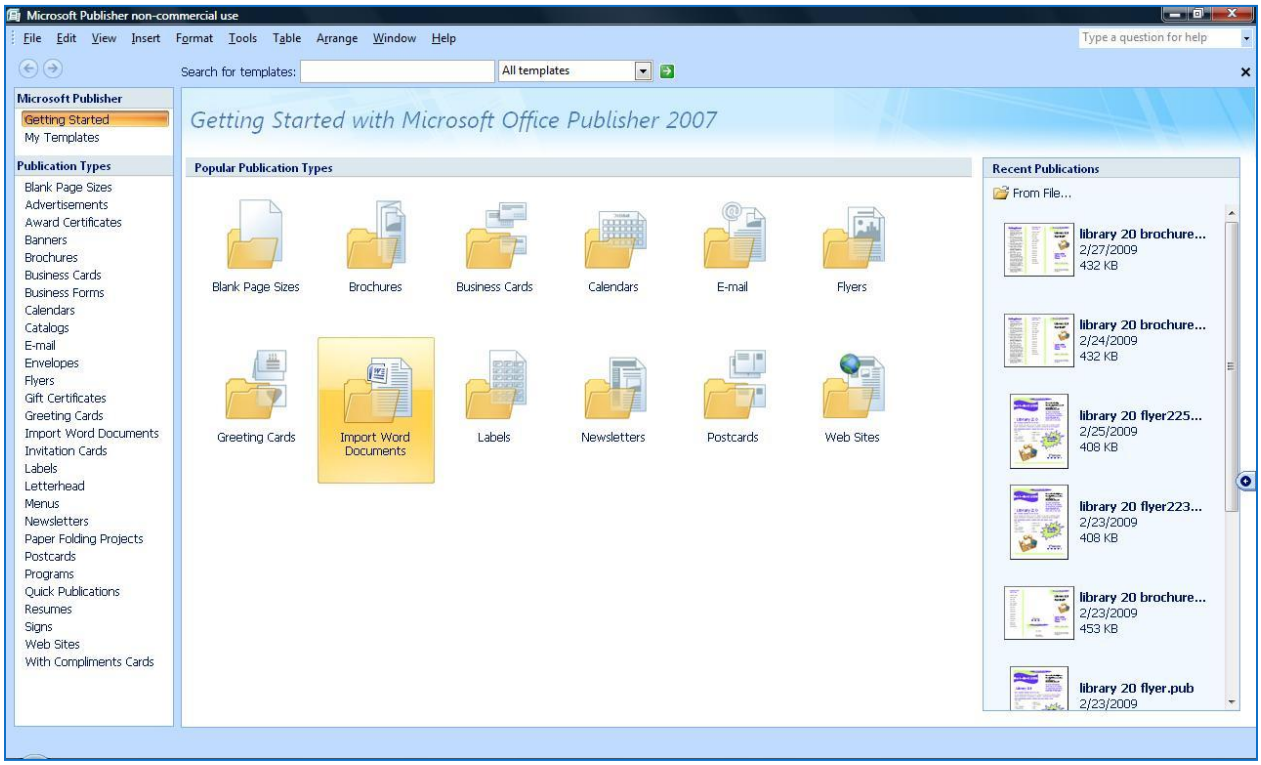

By the end of class, learners will be able to do the following:

- Format a blank document
- Create a document from a template
- Insert clip art

Introduction

Microsoft Publisher is desktop publishing software. It handles text boxes and graphics in much the same way as PowerPoint. In most instances, you will use a template that can be modified. Before you begin, please click Help/ Publisher Tasks and review the material on the left screen by clicking the blue text.

Accessing Publisher

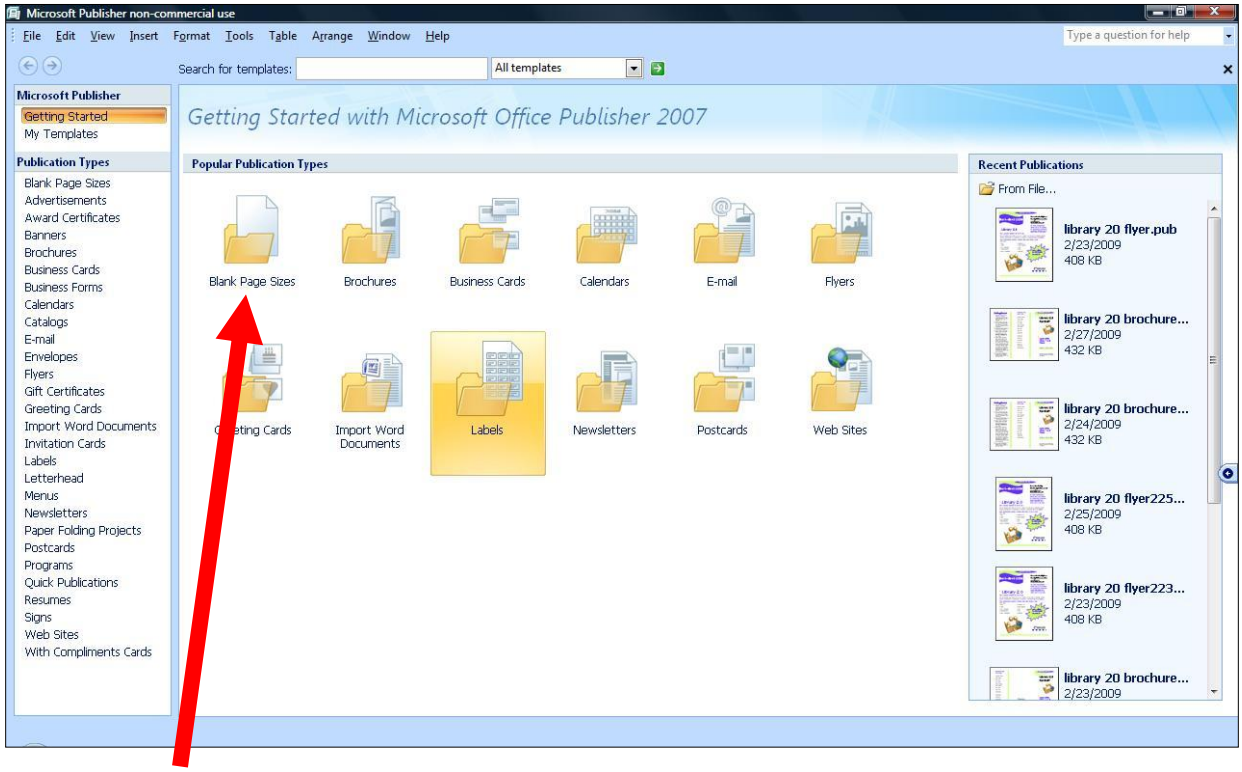

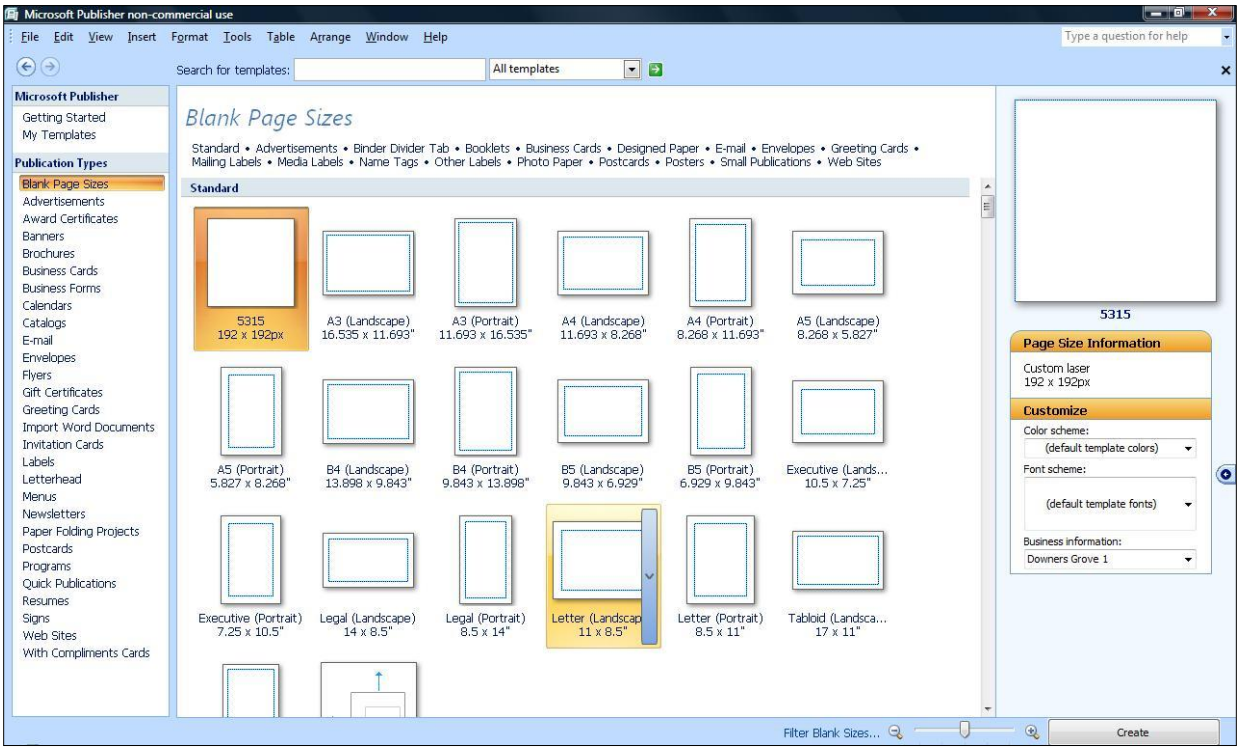

Publisher still uses the Menu Bar instead of the Fluid User Interface a.k.a. the Ribbon.

Building a Foundation

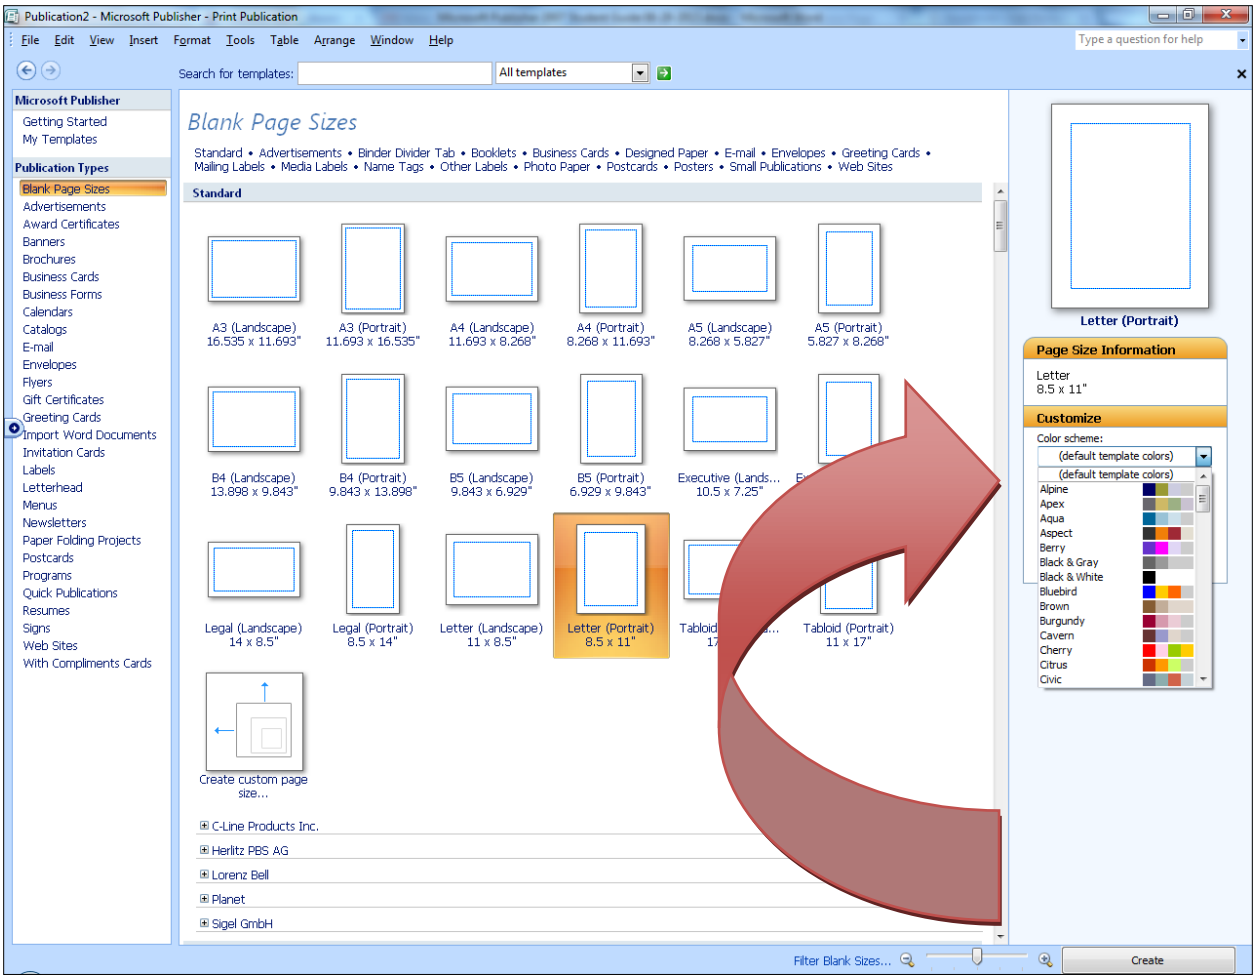

Starting from Scratch

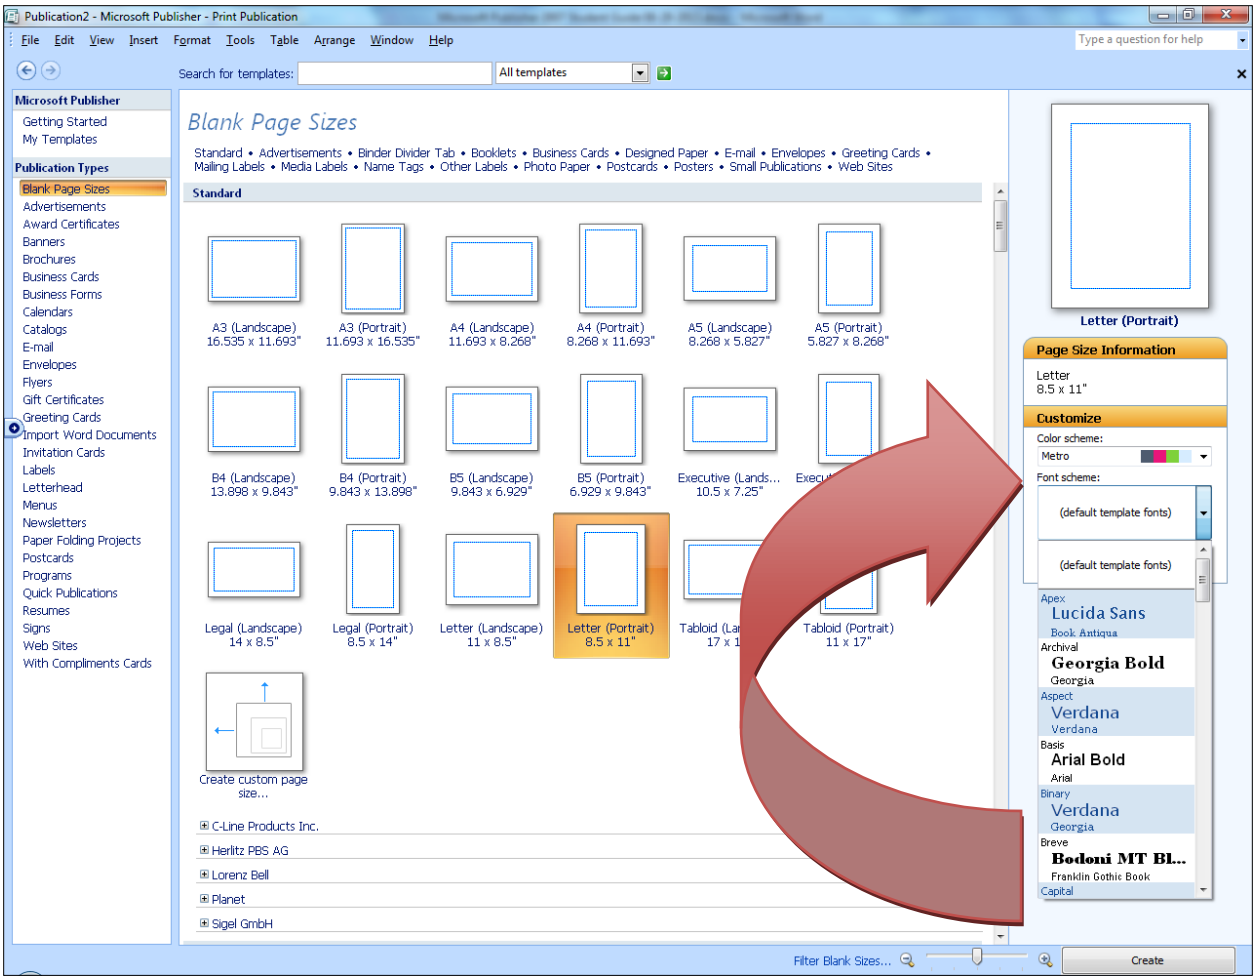

1. Click

2. Scroll down the page until you see the appropriate paper size, for example, Letter (Portrait) 8½ x 11.

3. Click Customize under Color scheme.
4. Click a color scheme. You can always change it.

5. Click the down arrow under Font scheme:
6. From the drop down box, select a font scheme by clicking it.
7. Click

Knowing Elements of the Publisher Screen

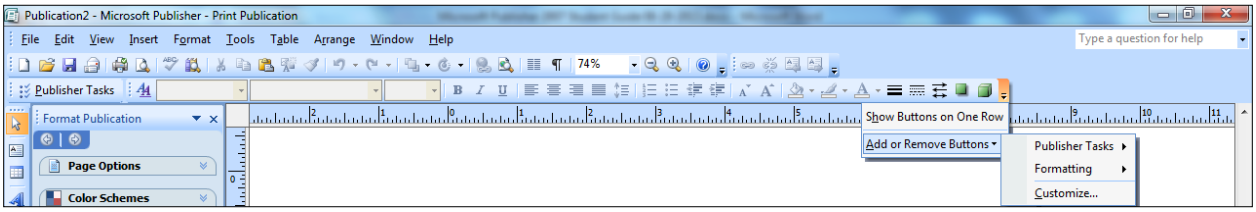

Adding Addition Toolbars to the Publisher Screen

1. Click View/Toolbars.
2. Toolbars with checkmarks already appear on the Publisher screen. To view a toolbar click, it until a checkmark appears; to remove a toolbar, click it until the checkmark disappears.

Changing Objects on a Toolbar

You can select which objects to display on a toolbar.

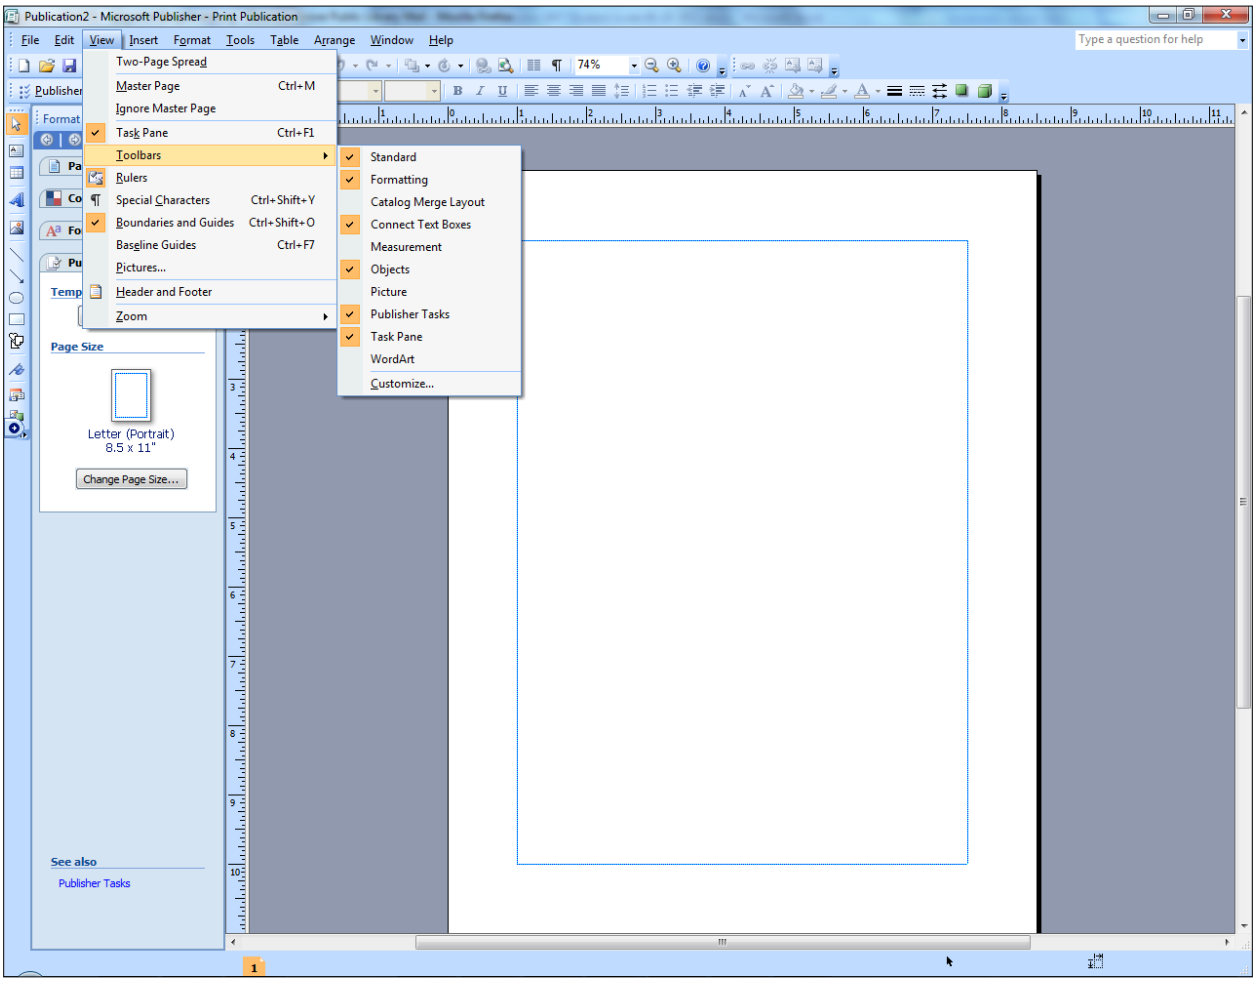

1. Click the down arrow at the end of a toolbar.
2. Select Add or Remove Buttons from the drop-down screen.
3. Click the name of the toolbar, for example, Formatting.

4. All the tools are listed. To add a tool, click until a checkmark appears; to remove a tool, click until a checkmark disappears.

Creating a Customized Toolbar

1. Click View/Toolbars.
2. Click Customize.

3. Click  from the Toolbar tab.

4. Type a name for the new toolbar, for example, Favorites.

5. Click

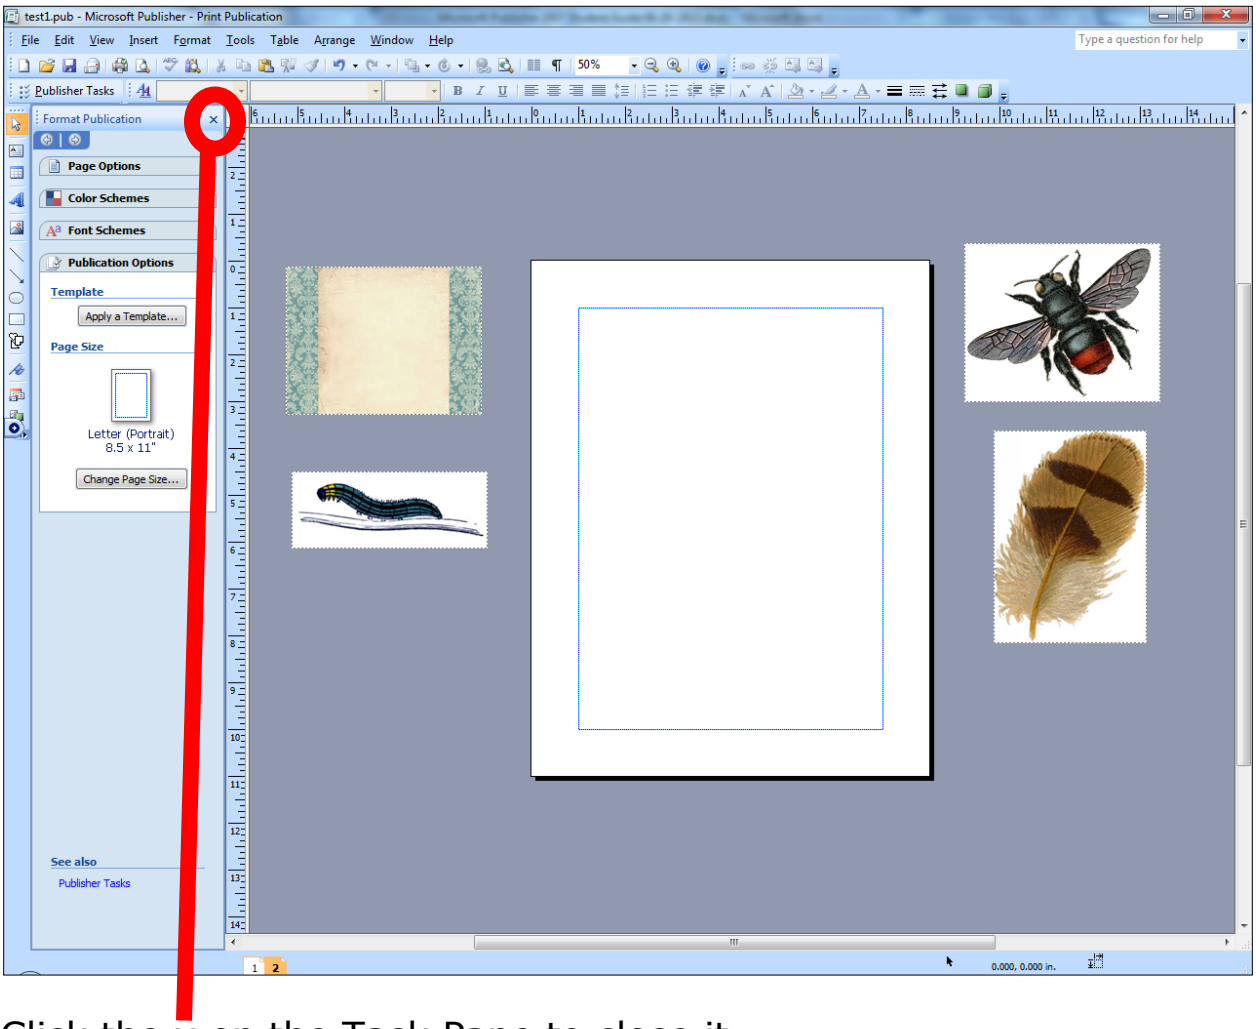

6. A blue window appears on the right side.
7. Click the Commends tab.
8. Scroll through the commands on the left. When the commands appear on the right, drag them on top of the blue window. You can also rearrange the commands by moving dragging and dropping them.

You can edit this toolbar. See page 10.

Hiding the Task Pane

If you wish to see more of your document, hide the task pane.

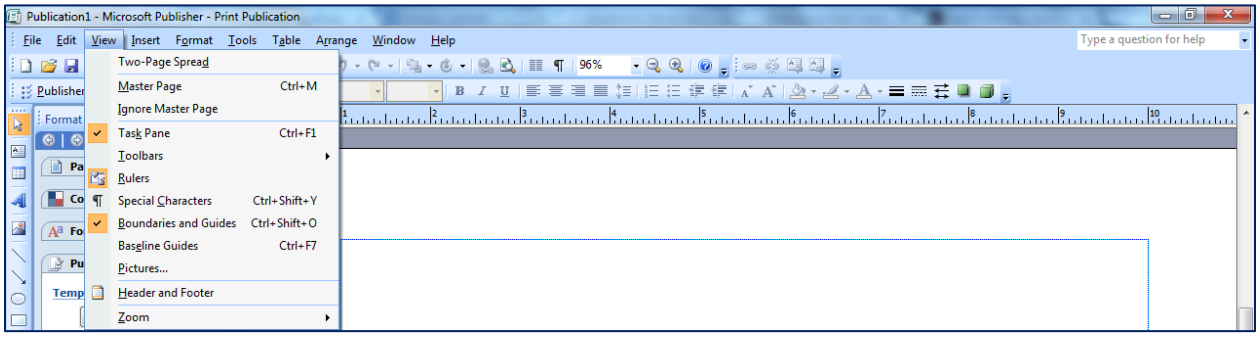

Click the x on the Task Pane to close it.

To view the Task Pane, click View/Task Pane from the Menu Bar, or hold down the Ctrl key from the keyboard and tap the F1 key.

Enabling the Layout and Baseline Guides

1. Click View/Boundaries and Guides, or Baseline Guides.

Boundaries and Guides, and Baseline Guides help align elements in graphic designs.

Changing the Size of the Baseline Guides

You may want to change the Baseline Guides to coincide with the point size of the text you are using.

1. Click Arrange/Layout Guides from the Menu Bar.

2. Change the Horizontal Baseline to the point size of the font you are using.
3. Click OK

Accessing Layout Guides

1. Click Arrange/Layout Guides.

2. Change the top and side margins.

3. Click the Grid Guides tab.

4. You can add columns and rows and increase the spacing between them by using the up and down arrows, or typing a number.

5. Click OK

Turning on Ruler Guides

Ruler guides do not print and are used to layout a document. They are especially helpful when you are placing pictures along with text.

1. Click Arrange/Ruler Guides.
2. You can either add horizontal or vertical ruler guides. Click either from the drop down menu.
3. To move the guides, position the cursor on the line until the cursor looks like ⇳
4. Hold the left mouse button down and drag the line up or down.

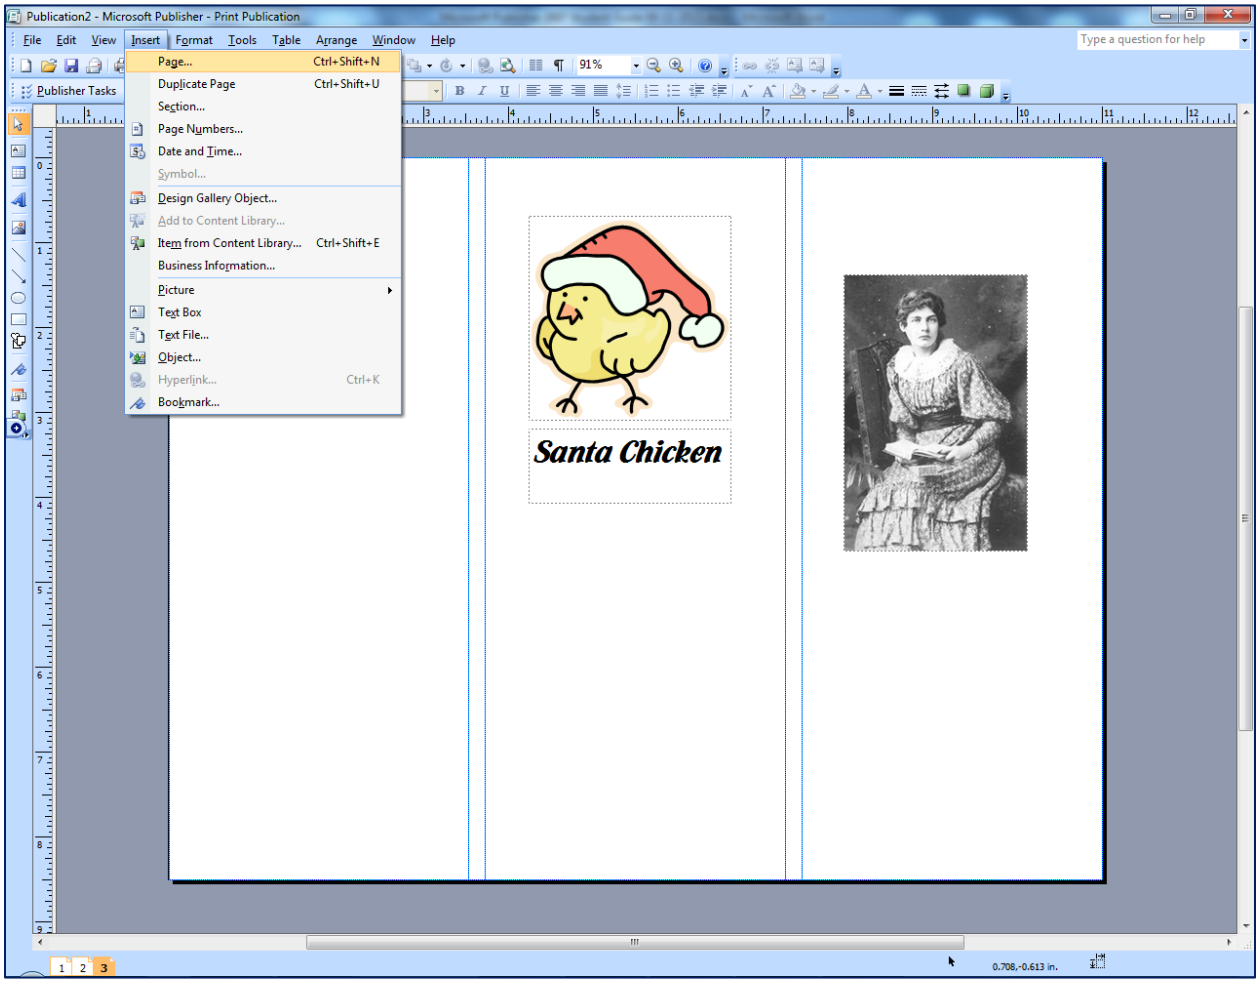

To add more lines, position the cursor on the ruler until it looks like ⇳. Hold down the left mouse button and drag it down to the page. You can do the same with the vertical ruler.

Using the Side Bar to Store Design Elements

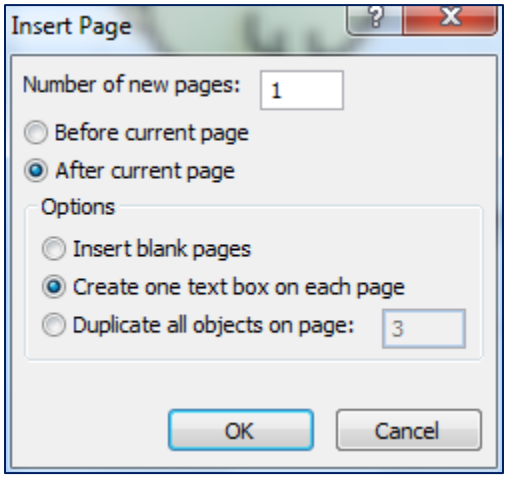

If you are going to be using an element on multiple pages, like a logo, you can copy it to the sidebar. It will then be available for all pages of your document. Make sure that the element does not touch the white of the screen, that is print area, or it won't be available for all pages.
